Four Cardinal Virtues

1. Justice
2. Prudence
3. Temperance
4. Fortitude

Magnanimity Defined

on the Virtues of the Human Heart*
(Ignatius Press,

- Magnanimity is greatness of mind and spirit.
- Magnanimity is the expansion of the spirit toward great things; one who expects great things of himself and makes himself worthy of it is magnanimous.
- A magnanimous person is to a certain extent “particular”: he does not allow himself to become concerned with everything that comes along, but rather only with those great things that are suitable for him. Magnanimity seeks above all the highest good and the highest glory.

the Human Heart*

- Magnanimity is free from pettiness. The magnanimous person does not complain, for his heart does not permit him to be overcome by external influence.
- Magnanimity encompasses an unshakable firmness of hope, a plainly defiant certainty, and the thorough calm of a fearless heart.
- A magnanimous person bears himself in a manner suited for the nobility of his office and cause. He does not derive his nobility from human respect, but from a cause espoused.

Magnanimity Defined

the Human Heart*

- To be magnanimous, one must espouse a great cause. To espouse a great cause means to make it one's own, that is, to have a passionate vision of the heroic and personal waging of that cause.
- A magnanimous person is not only intellectually convinced of the truth of his cause but engraves this truth deeply in his heart and is morally persuaded to live it out.
- The noble cause, held deeply, becomes inseparable from who that person is.
- The antithesis of magnanimity is to be silent out of fear for what is true.

Dr. Royal Lee Expressed This Virtue at the Highest Level Regarding Health and Nutrition

- Dr. Royal Lee recognized early on that malnutrition was rapidly becoming the greatest threat to the health of the American people
- "One of the biggest tragedies of human civilization is the precedence of chemical therapy over nutrition. It's a substitution of artificial therapy over natural, of poisons over food, in which we are feeding people poisons in trying to correct the reactions of starvation. You all know how ridiculous that is, but you all know how widely it's being done." Dr. Royal Lee, 1957, Detroit, MI

FAKE FOOD

- Dr. Lee knew the industry does not care about the quality of the nutrition... it was all about maximizing shelf life and profit.
- He wrote extensively on the importance of nutrient dense foods and why industrial processing destroys so much of it.
- He created products he believed would solve some of these problems so sick people could be made well.
- He founded Standard Process in 1929 to organize his vision of healing into a vehicle of change.

TOXIC FOOD

- Lab testing of the food samples from the top twenty-one fast food chains
- 100% of fast-food samples tested positive for the heavy metals lead and cadmium

A 2019 newborn boy will take prescription drugs for 48% of his life, a newborn girl will take prescription drugs for 60% of her life!

Life course patterns of prescription drug use using data from the 1998–2012

Medical Expenditure Panel Surveys, the Human Mortality Database, and the National Center for Health Statistics. Newborns in 2019 could be expected to take prescription drugs for roughly half their lives: 47.54 years for women and 36.84 years for men. The number of years individuals can expect to take five or more drugs increased substantially. Americans also experienced particularly dramatic increases in years spent taking statins, antihypertensives, and

The US has the lowest life expectancy at birth, the highest death rates for avoidable or treatable conditions, the highest maternal and infant mortality, and among the highest suicide rates. The US also has the highest rates of people with chronic conditions and obesity.

The Cause Espoused

- What is our cause?

To solve the physical and mental health crisis we see all around us by building health through natural means.

- Who is our adversary?

The false idea of chemicals over food, poisons over nutrition.

- Who spreads these lies?

The government, the agricultural biotech industry, the media, and the pharmaceutical industry.
